November Meeting & Things

The meeting was called to order on time by President Robbie Bridges. (At least that's what Robbie's notes indicate.) All the dottering Officers were in attendance except the Secretary who was tooling up and down Highway Five (with his caretaker) on a visit to the Great Mickey and other points south. Robbie announced that Jim King had donated for the raffle, a bunch of tee shirts from Lucas Arts including a Twister, an ILM, and a Skywalker Sound Style. Donations of a label maker and tape backup system from Bob Barton were also noted. The President polled the members on what sizes of tee shirts would be needed in the future and Joe Castro indicated that extra, extra, very large would be nice. (Joe must be thinking Omar the tent maker is going to make one big enough for him. Ha! There ain't enough material for that Joe.)

Robbie had the unpleasant duty to announce that Jim Hood had lost his long battle with cancer the previous weekend. Jim was a charter member of the club holding membership card #21. For many years Jim was our treasurer and held other offices during the years including President, but Jim was always happier when he could work a bit behind the scene, doing things such as graphics for the cover of the Journal. His bottom line was his love of Atari and his desire to help others. He will be greatly missed by many.

As it is the desire of the club to entertain the membership as well as educate them, the next bit of entertainment was supplied by Bob Woolley as he made one of his classic 8 Bit Floppy demonstrations. Bob chose Floppy number one from 1983 to demonstrate. The club's first floppy contained programs like BOINK, CHICKEN, OILWELL, SUNSET, and a demo called BUMBLBEE which everyone agreed had terrible sound. Bob did pretty well demonstrating OILWELL, and showed how the game teaches you that one can strike oil and still go into debt if the well did not produce enough. (Hopefully Terry will be back on the job before the December meeting so we will have a competent game player to do the game demo's.)

The Crooked Raffle was held and the Tee shirts went quickly along with some persimmons that were supplied by VP Peter Chen. Peter was thanked for his donation but was admonished not to donate any more of his "Media Containers" as the Presidents extra bedroom has run out of storage room. (Actually the deal with the Media Containers was that Peter was paid to trash them and figured out that he could make more by donating them to the club and not having to pay for dumping them.)

Next month will be the club Christmas party and there will be a canned food collection. Joe Castro will arrange their donation to a local charity, so bring a selection of canned food for the needy - thanks!
